

Welcome to the mushroom's world.

Welcome to the living organism identification site of the Miron-Royer Foundation Inc. We will start with boletes, the most important group of mushrooms, for both amateur and professional pickers alike; other groups of mushrooms will be added over time as other collaborative efforts take place. The Foundation is also open to publishing identification guides for other groups of living organisms (mosses, algae, insects, invertebrates, mollusks, etc.) in cooperation with specialists from these various areas.

You will notice that photos play a major role in completing these guides, so that they are accessible to all, both beginners and specialists. We are hoping that many people will send us photos to better illustrate certain species or to show species for which photos are missing. We also invite enthusiasts to send us photos that can be inserted under the "MORE PHOTOS" tab for species already illustrated. For each of the photos provided, the name of the author will accompany the image.

Good luck and enjoy your tastings,
Fernand Miron & Anita Royer
